MISSION STATEMENT

Founded in 1963, the International Slurry Surfacing Association (ISSA) is a nonprofit association dedicated to the interests, education, and success of slurry and micro surfacing, chip sealing and crack treating professionals and corporations around the world. Internationally recognized as the authority in slurry and micro surfacing, chip sealing and crack treating technology, ISSA promotes the highest standards of ethics and quality while providing its members with information, technical assistance, and ongoing opportunities for networking and professional development.

ISSA MEMBER BENEFITS

- ISSA disseminates industry information through its quarterly newsletter, membership directory, seminars, workshops, conventions, and website at www.slurry.org.
- ISSA develops and publishes the most current technical information in the industry including slurry & micro surfacing, chip seal, and crack treating specifications, design technical bulletins, quality control brochures, inspector's manuals, conference proceedings and numerous other technical publications.
- ISSA offers promotional materials including brochures and DVD's on slurry & micro surfacing.
- ISSA exhibits at six industry trade shows annually and regularly provides speakers for technical conferences around the world.
- ISSA offers two main educational and training events a year: the ISSA Annual Convention and the Slurry Systems Workshop. Both events provide unique opportunities for technology transfer and networking amongst your peers. The Annual Convention is held at an international site every five years.
- ISSA's Annual Convention is held in conjunction with the annual meetings of the Asphalt Emulsion Manufacturers Association and the Asphalt Recycling & Reclaiming Association, ISSA's industry partners in the Pavement Preservation & Recycling Alliance.
- ISSA is headquartered in Annapolis, Maryland, with staff facilitating liaison with the Federal Highway Administration, national and regional government agencies, public works agencies, engineering bodies and divisions of the military.
- ISSA members and the general public have access to the ISSA Technical Committee and its Response Team which keeps the association and its members current on technical issues and answers any general or technical questions on slurry & micro surfacing, chip sealing, and crack treating.
- ISSA's 2011 Industry Awareness Campaign is a professional program to underscore the latest trends and innovations in slurry & micro surfacing, chip sealing, and crack treating technology and applications, eco-efficiency, environmental considerations, and geographical usage.
